

MANY WOMEN IN WORK FOR WAR

Approximately Five Million of Them Employed in England.

London, Eng., April 4.—Approximately 5,000,000 women directly replaced men in England during the war.

The total number of women employed in all work at the outbreak of the war was 2,748,000. In April, 1918, the number had increased to 4,888,000. At that time 701,000 women were employed on munitions and 774,000 on other government work in industry.

The principal avenues through which the fresh 2,000,000 were absorbed were:

Industry	Employed, Inc.	July, 14, 1918	April, 1918
Manufacturing	1,748,000	1,748,000	1,748,000
Commerce	2,000	197,000	197,000
Gov. establishments	2,000	197,000	197,000
Civil service	2,000	197,000	197,000
Transport	17,000	73,000	73,000
Finance and banking	5,500	23,000	23,000
Postoffice	62,500	23,500	23,500
Professions	20,500	27,000	27,000

Women employed as permanent workpeople in agriculture had risen from 18,000 in 1914 to 113,000 in 1918. They were employed chiefly in milking, dairy work, cattle tending and light general farm work.

Of the increase of 2,000,000 in commercial undertakings it is shown that 1,000,000 went to draperies and clothiers; 500,000 to grocers, bakers and confectioners; 200,000 to butchers, fishermen and dairymen; 140,000 to chemists and 12,000 to stationers and bookbinders.

Only 1200 women were employed in banks in July, 1914; now there are 35,000. Insurance companies now employ 22,000 as against 7,000 at the start of the war.

Women engaged in railway work have increased from 12,000 to 62,000; on municipal railways from 2200 to 18,500; on private tramways from 200 to 1,800; and on omnibuses from 200 to 4200.

It's Burkburnett

That's Selling the Stock

Did you ever have a salesman put an oil proposition before you that didn't tell of Marine and Helen-Elizabeth and Van Cleve and hundreds of other Burkburnett wells? No. Because it's Burkburnett—and ONLY Burkburnett—that's making BIG MONEY for the investor. For that matter, it's the only New Texas field that's paying stockholders dividends at all.

The Cauble Oil Company

With 45 Acres in the Heart of Burkburnett

Are POSITIVELY offering investors the greatest oil opportunity on the market today. Forty-five acres in Burkburnett—neighbor of $3,500,000 Marine—close to the $2,000,000 Fowler Farm Company—a short distance from the 1000-barrel Helen-Elizabeth—JAM-UP to Nettle-Crowell, whose acreage brought the highest price ever paid for an oil lease.

THERE'S ONE CONDITION ABOUT BUYING THIS STOCK—you'll have to hurry—for a proposition like this doesn't remain on the market long.

Growing Plants In Home Garden

What happens when you treat the seed box with boiling water (lower left) and what happens when you don't (lower right). Above (left) healthy roots and stems of young tomato plants grown in diseased soil which has been treated with boiling water; (right) diseased roots and stems of young tomato plants grown in diseased soil and showing dark dead spots due to fungi and root-knot galls caused by eelworms.

To be sure of obtaining healthy young plants of tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, cabbages, lettuce and so on, for transplanting to the home garden or elsewhere, treat the soil in the seed box with boiling water before planting. Most all soils commonly used for seed beds contain one or more kinds of harmful molds or fungi and, in addition, in the south, a destructive eelworm which causes most amateur gardeners have an idea that they should plant everything in the seed catalog. As a rule, not more than 15 or 20 kinds of vegetables should be planted in the small garden.

A disease of many garden crops commonly called root-knot. Recently it has been learned by specialists of the United States department of agriculture that seed bed soil can be easily freed of these plant enemies by this simple hot water treatment. If they are not killed, plants grown in such soil will usually become diseased and die or else will remain stunted and sickly. It is because of the transplanting of such diseased seedlings that many of the poor crops or failures in the home garden occur. Every gardener should therefore learn how to recognize troubles of young plants and become familiar with the method here described for preventing them.

Before treating the soil it should be placed in the box ready for seedling. Make a few holes in the bottom of the box for drainage. Pour on the boiling water slowly at the rate of two gallons to a box of soil one foot square and four inches deep and at once cover with a newspaper to help hold the heat for a longer time. After a few days or whenever the soil has dried out enough the seed may be planted. Be careful that no diseased soil or anything else which might spread the trouble gets into the box.

Young plants grown in this treated soil not only have white, sound roots, but also have a healthy, vigorous appearance above ground. Besides this, seeds grow better and the plants grow much faster than those planted in untreated soil.

Ordinarily diseased seedlings are a lighter green color and are somewhat smaller than healthy plants and have a sickly appearance. These signs of disease on the young plants, however, may be present on the roots and develop after the plants are set in the garden.

To find out if the disease are present always examine the roots of young plants before setting them out. If affected by molds or fungi, dark and rotten patches may be seen on the roots and sometimes on the lower part of the stems. Badly diseased seedlings have their roots killed at the surface of the ground so that they fall over. If attacked by the eelworm the roots are enlarged or swollen and knotted places are formed.

Little Bobbie's Pa

Daddy Was A Devil In His Youth And Had A Great Dust In A Snowstorm.

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

WE were taking about Blizzards—a Blizzard is worse than the wind blows and the snow comes at the same time. It is a terrible storm, and Ma to Pa, I am so glad you and Bobbie is never got caught in one, and Ma.

I fear no Tom-pat, and Pa, I am a hard-bitten man, and Pa, which cares not for them storms with Buffalo wacker gent, and Pa.

My uncle John almost got lost in one of them blizzards, and Ma, out in North Dakota he heard he saw he was going the wrong way, and Ma, then with rail presents of mind, and Ma he turned back.

I was often in the same boat in the old Frontier Days, and Pa, I have often saw many storms, and Pa, so thick that you couldn't see sure hand behind your back.

You are very flip this Eve, and Ma, I notice that you are getting quite full of them old Blizzards, Pa, I will flash you the signal, and Pa, but this here Blizzard talk reminds me of the old days when I was a little kid up in the grade N. W. and Pa, with them Royal Mounted Cops.

I never knew that chapter of your dear life, and Ma, I shall have a little flickshun.

It is strange, then flickshun, and Pa, I will recite a bit of it to my wild eyed child and my charming and graceful wife, and Pa. How is that for high, and Pa.

Very good, and Ma, shoot ahead, and Ma.

Hot Draft In Cold.

Well, and Pa, in the winter of 1877 I was out in South Dakota rounding up some of the Indians which had leaped over the track, and Pa, they all had there Reservations. It was a bitter cold winter, and Pa, but I was hot stuff, and then I knew it. Pa, sed, because they kept heading away from me and my gallant men. They outnumbered 10 to one, and Pa, but who cared?

Indeed not, and Ma, you never cared, and Pa. Well, at last we came up with them in Wind Blizzards, and Pa, and when they saw me galloping up on my horse, covered with gleaming snow, and Pa, they all said Here comes the Great White Spirit! and you and hardly see them, and Pa, for the dust they raised running away.

Dust? and Ma.

Sure, and Pa, it is very dusty in South Dakota.

Well, and Ma, dust in a snowstorm is a new one on me, and Ma, but what ever my lord & master says must be so. Sum of that dust has got in my eyes, and Ma, & I am very sleepy. Goodnight, and Ma.

Mrs. J. O. McGrady has for the past six months served as a member of the El Paso School Board and has proven to the satisfaction of the present Board that a woman should be chosen to serve. Mrs. McGrady's counsel and advice has been of invaluable benefit to our public schools, and to show a well deserved appreciation, we should re-elect her.—Adv.

England To Complete Tunnel Under Channel

To The French Coast

London, Eng., April 4.—Construction of a tunnel under the English channel to connect England and France which, according to government announcements, will soon begin is a century old scheme broached in Napoleon by the celebrated French engineer Ma-thieu. Napoleon favored it, but nothing came of the plan, owing to war and Napoleon's downfall. It was not until Napoleon III came to the French throne that actual preliminary work was undertaken, with the approval of the French ruler and queen Victoria. Then came the Franco-Prussian war and the scheme again lapsed. Shortly after that war a convention was signed between England and France setting forth the conditions under which the tunnel should be constructed. On the English side boring operations were begun near Dover at a depth of 160 feet and a seven foot tunnel was bored for a distance of 2000 yards. Strong opposition on grounds of military strategy developed in the British parliament against the project and again it was dropped.

Boy Empties Bank To Bail Father Out of Jail

Evansville, Ind., April 4.—When Harold Gorski, 12, entered Judge Boyer's court recently, he sounded like a walking savings bank. Pennies, nickels and dimes jingled merrily in his pockets. Harold slipped up to Judge Boyer.

"My daddy has been arrested," he sobbed. "I don't want you to do anything to him. Here are my savings. Please let him go."

Harold then dumped the contents of his pockets on Judge Boyer's desk. It totaled $3.57.

"I won't tell on you," Harold whispered, as Judge Boyer seriously reminded him of the gravity of attempting to bribe the court.

Joseph Gorski, Harold's father, was charged with violating the health ordinance. He was released on probation.

Foresees Long Distance Commuting By Airplane

Syracuse, N. Y., April 4.—"I won't be long before the present distant up-ster will be talking about 'commuting' in the airplane," said a Los Angeles chap here. "Why, the distant cities will become suburbs to each other, and the coast to coast talk will be so minimized in the mind that the distance to the Philippines will be no greater than is that to the coast now considered. This far-sighted one was discussing a recent trip by airplane, New York to Ithaca, about 200 miles, in two hours."

Would Get Heroes Jobs If She Is Made Mayor

Los Angeles, Cal., April 4.—Mrs. Irene Smith, 52, ardent and fervent and Socialist candidate for mayor of Los Angeles, promises that the first thing she will do if elected will be to find jobs for returning unemployed soldiers and sailors.

"Also, I would be mayor of the people," she said, "and if a corporation asked me as mayor for a special privilege, I would act on the side of the people."

Second Wife Gets Job To Help Pay Alimony

San Francisco, Cal., April 4.—To aid her husband to pay his first wife alimony and effect his release from jail, pretty Dollie de Vouds-Grist, former society belle, recently took up a position as a nurse. William Grist is in the county jail for failure to make payment on $1750 delinquent alimony due his first wife. Love for her husband prompted the latest Mrs. Grist to search for employment to help pay off the debt.

Excitement Runs High

Never before in El Paso was witnessed a more dramatic scene than took place at our office yesterday. A large of clerks were kept busy filling out applications for Twin Gusher stock. An eager crowd stood in line awaiting their turn. The atmosphere was tense with excitement and each applicant seemed to fear that first 50,000 shares to be sold at par would be gone before he could get his name in.

The coming in of the Tippet well reported to be the largest well in Texas which is only a short distance from our 200 acres has caused a veritable stampede for Twin Gusher stock. The report states the derrick was blown to pieces by the force of the oil.

This report being of such a sensational nature extending the gusher district far to the south and so near to our 200 acres the Trustees promptly decided to put a limit on the stock to be sold at par to only 50,000 shares.

The report of such action by our Trustees soon spread and the rush for stock commenced. At present rate the entire 50,000 shares will be taken in a few days. Drilling operations will then be started and no more stock for sale at par.

Call or wire at once if you expect to be one of the lucky ones.

FRED H. LAZENBY.

Holdings of the Big Four Oil and Refining Company of Texas:

Tract No. 1—2½ acres west of Burkburnett surrounded by producing wells.

Tract No. 2—2½ acres southwest of Burkburnett surrounded by producing wells.

Tract No. 3—One 2½-acre tract a little south of tract No. 2, surrounded by producing wells.

Tract No. 4—One 40-acre tract north of Jackboro in Jacko county. This tract of land is the offset to the Hudson Jackson well, now going down.

Tract No. 5—667½ acres in the eastern edge of Brown county and northwest corner of Mills county. The Lucky well is a short distance east of this property and the Goss well and the Big Duke fields are just north a short distance. This is splendid acreage and development is now crowding up very close to us.

Tract No. 6—125 acres in Mills county. There are producing wells very close to this property and a great deal of development work is now being done in the vicinity of this acreage.

Tract No. 7—41 acres southwest part of Brown county and west of the Big Duke field —1½ miles west of Bailey well and about three miles from the Sinclair well.

Tract No. 8—2,040 acres in Reeves county. This acreage is in an approved field, but a great deal of development is now being done in Reeves county and those who are exploiting the oil possibilities are confident they will find oil.

Tract No. 9—10 acres three miles north and a little east of Iowa Park, in Wichita county, south of Burkburnett. This tract is surrounded by producing wells on land adjoining it on all four sides.
